Chun Hsin Tube, established in 1989, is a leading manufacturer of primary packaging in China. We have three manufacturing sites (Taipei, Shanghai and Guangzhou) with nearly 1000 staff and 300 million tubes produced every year. We invent and manufacture outstanding plastic and laminate tubes, with superb decoration, caps and applicators, primarily used in skincare, cosmetics, toiletries, pharmaceuticals & health, and industrial products.

Our tubes are available in a wide range of materials and structures. We provide mono-layer and multi-layer PE tubes, as well as laminate tubes in AL, ABL, PBL and Polyfoil formations. As a leading manufacturer of primary packaging, we follow a rigorous, consistent quality policy and align ourselves with the needs of our customers. We continuously upgrade our systems and processes to ensure the highest product quality. We adhere to international service standards and are qualified with ISO 9001 and ISO 14001 certificates.

Changing Paradigms in the Asian Market for Professional Beauty

China and Japan are the cornerstone markets for professional beauty in Asia. Professional hair, skin, and nail products have successfully found new avenues in brick-and-mortar stores, e-commerce outlets, and live streaming platforms such as Douyin. This shift is not as strong in Japan, where the market is much more conservative, and brands are cautious about expanding beyond professional channels. During this fast-paced session, the speaker will identify where pockets of opportunity exist, as well as what the future holds for each category and market.

The Way Forward: How Sustainability Has Transformed Asia Retail

Over the last 10 years, sustainability in retail has evolved from a “nice to have” concept that primarily found a home in the marketing and branding side of a business to an existential requirement that touches every part of a business. For today’s retailers, sustainability is a part of everyone’s job, with roles as diverse as merchandising, sales, operations, marketing, supply chain and government relations all playing a significant part in their sustainability journey.

Description: Launching in 2021, Hello Sunday has one simple mission...to encourage all year-round SPF protection. Because every day is a SUN day.

We know that UV damage happens in everyday life. Sadly, the consumer knowledge isn't there yet, but we are here to change that!

After spending many years in Australia where awareness of sun damage is high, our founder Amy Ford returned to the UK with a vision to change the way we wear and perceive SPF for the better. Believing SPF is a right, not a privilege, it was important for Amy to create a range that was affordable, would offer multi-faceted protection and provide expert skincare benefits in one, making it simple for everyone to slot SPF into their daily skincare line up.

Working alongside a small team of skincare enthusiasts & formulation experts, Hello Sunday was born and we've been bridging the gap between suncare and skincare.

 During the last 17 years, we have been running forward to the development of new hydrogels continually. Based on the original technology with high experience, we developed a color-changing hydrogel face mask and pH5.5 hydrogel soap. They are also well-known beauty items these days. This year, we would like to introduce a very new hydrogel, "duo-colored eye patches". and also, planning to introduce "double-layered hydrogel" for the next year.

 Literally, we don't stop to develop and we don't stay with today's technology.
 We are ready to share ours with you. Hope you get fresh ideas and clear insight through visiting our booth No.E1G.
